

Hosted VoIP Solution – In 30 Days or Less!

VoX meets the unique needs of service providers who want to private label and resell a broadband phone service offering. Our experience has proven the importance of a wholesale solution that was specifically designed to be rapidly adapted and customized – from user interfaces to the back office billing and support systems. VoX's reseller interfaces provide total control of customer accounts including number assignments, automated provisioning, call detail records and feature management. Simply put, we excel at guiding our customers down the path to a successful voice offering. Since we work with wholesale customers like you all the time, we know what to expect and can react more quickly to one-off requests. We anticipate client requirements and eliminate the difficulties that can impede product launches and ultimately affect the service you provide to your customers.

Opportunity Is Calling

You can quickly and inexpensively capitalize on the digital broadband phone revolution with the VoX broadband service. Let us help you drive new revenue, attract more customers, and improve retention. We've worked hard to develop a solution that delivers high-quality and exceptional value, beyond that of other service providers. We'll take care of the technical details and regulatory headaches associated with providing the service on your own – and without any major capital investment on your part.

Your VoX Benefits:

- Customized web interfaces
- Back office automation
- Robust customer management tools
- Low start-up costs
- Extensive DID coverage across the U.S., Canada, and Puerto Rico
- Flexible bundled calling plans including digital voicemail, call forwarding, call block and more
- Local number portability
- E911 and 911 included
- Clarity that rivals PSTN service

VoX Technology

VoX provides unparalleled cost advantages and performance. Our nationwide network is based on our own proprietary SIP softswitch, Session Border Controller, and service features. This network, which leverages server cluster technology and runs on a Linux operating system, provides a load balanced environment that is stable and highly scalable. By using SIP and enhanced compression voice CODECs, VoX is able to process the smallest possible packets of information quickly and efficiently. The fact that we own and develop the software code enables us to scale almost without limitation or implementation delays, and provides the freedom to add functionality when we need it. As a result, we can react more quickly to specific wholesale customer requirements, market demand, and regulatory changes. We don't have to wait for large hardware providers to make changes that sometimes take a year or more.

Wholesale Solution

VoX Communications 12249 Science Drive • Suite 135 • Orlando FL 32826 • (866) 869-9475 • www.voxcorp.net

Management Tools

The strength of our back office automation allows VoX to be a carrier's carrier. All VoX interfaces are flexible and customizable to meet the needs of our wholesale customers. Our billing system is tightly integrated with the provisioning system and the softswitch to consolidate tasks that typically involve separate departments and personnel. When an end-user signs up, the order is captured and processed into provisioning, untouched by human hands until the packing label prints and the unit ships to your customer. Accounts can be deactivated or put on hold with the click of a button. Your administrative web portal puts you in control and provides unlimited access to your account information.

Wholesale Solution

VoX Communications 12249 Science Drive • Suite 135 • Orlando FL 32826 • (866) 869-9475 • www.voxcorp.net

Get Started Today!

- VoX's nationwide network provides unparalleled cost advantages and performance you can depend on. The proprietary SIP-based architecture is uniquely designed to be ultra efficient, with no single point of failure
- Our easy to use back office systems provide order flow management for efficient provisioning of billing and support services
- VoX's user interfaces are easily customized to reflect your unique brand. Our solution was built to accommodate your needs
- VoX pricing includes advanced features that typically cost extra. That's right. Features such as voicemail, three-way calling, do not disturb, call return, and caller ID are all standard
- You are in full control of the packaging and pricing of your individualized solution

To request more information on VoX Wholesale Services, send and email to info@voxcorp.net or call (866) 869-9475 today.